McNeal released on bond to await new murder trial

After serving four years on murder charges, Don McNeal walked away from the Jackson County Jail Sunday, free on bond until a new trial can be scheduled.

McNeal had been in the state penitentiary at Parchman or the Jackson County Jail since Oct. 8, 1985, when he was arrested and charged with the murder of his wife, Darlene Collier McNeal.

Mrs. McNeal was a former

Bay St. Louis resident and had been shot in the head. McNeal had reported her missing in October 1985 and a few days later, her body was found in a wooded area near Slidell, La. A Warren County jury which heard the case, after a change of venue was granted due to pre-trial publicity, decided in June 1986 that McNeal was guilty.

However, the State Supreme Court reversed the ruling in July, based on the fact that the jury may have been prejudiced by being shown particularly graphic photos of the woman's

High bids postpone T-hangers at airport

BY D.C. HARVILL

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission's plans to build private hangers to be leased to small plane owners have been stalled.

At its regular monthly meeting Monday the commission voted to turn down all bids received for construction of the hangers because none fell within the project's budget.

Bids on the project ranged from a low of $324,320 up to $387,200. The commission originally had hoped to construct the hangers for less than $250,000.

Bay school board asked to alter selection policy for top academic honors

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District has been asked to reconsider its policy for selecting Bay High's valedictorian and salutatorian.

The district currently has no written policy for the selections, other than what is outlined in the student handbook, Bay High Principal Rogers James said.

At Monday night's meeting, Rev. Van Carpenter, parent of a Bay High student, asked that the policy be expanded to allow students who have moved to the Bay-Waveland district from other school districts to compete for valedictorian and salutatorian.

According to James, only students who have attended Bay High for four consecutive years are considered.

In other words, a student who attended school elsewhere any time between entering the ninth grade and become a graduating senior is not eligible.

The remaining criteria is based on grade averages.

According to James, courses are weighted, with quality points being awarded based both on the grade and on the type of course. A college prepar-

Error in estimates results in delay of utilities matter

BY DENA BISNETTE

A Dec. 7 meeting of the State Health Department has resulted in the postponement of a hearing regarding failure by Johnson Utilities, Inc., to comply with a court order to repair some of the company's water systems.

The meeting, according to Stephanie Ganuchau, an assistant state attorney general representing the health department, revealed a mathematical error that altered repair estimates for several of the systems, which include the Pass Christian Isles and Clermont Harbor Waterworks.

She said an incorrect factor was used, but hopes to have new estimates completed in time to have some news Friday regarding the next step to be taken in the matter.

In the meantime, a hearing regarding three systems in Jackson County had to be temporarily cancelled.

"We would prefer to be able to have the repairs made immediately, but we want to get them repaired without the people having to pay through the nose," Ganuchau stated.

If Johnson's repair proposals are not acceptable, the firm's owner, Glen Kelly Johnson, could face contempt of court charges.

He was ordered several years ago to upgrade his existing water systems in a resolution of about eight suits involving the Pass Christian Isles system and the three Jackson County facilities.

The State Attorney General's Office recently reactivated the cases and is considering reopening the Clermont Harbor matter as well.

Ganuchau said the delay in the Clermont Harbor case was primarily to allow the health department to determine the results of the Dec. 7 meeting before proceeding.

She said no specific time limit has been placed on the repair agreement itself, but times by which Johnson was supposed to have taken action were built into the court order.

"He has gone well past the times built into the court order," she stated.

Residents of both Pass Christian Isles and Clermont Harbor, as well as other areas served by Johnson Utilities, had complained of being unable to get repairs done, prolonged shut-downs of the systems, interruptions in service without warning and inadequate pressure.

In addition, spokesmen for both groups have stated that people are complaining of aesthetic problems, such as discolored or sandy water, and are concerned about the possibility

ON PATROL

ARMED ROBBERY

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department is looking for an armed robber who held up a convenience store in Fenton Community Monday.

Shortly before 2:30 p.m. a white male entered Fenton Quick Stop, displayed an automatic pistol and demanded money. He then had the clerk go into a storage room and blocked the door with sacks of dog food, said Investigator Nathan Hoda.

The robber took approximately $150 in cash, 10 packs of cigarettes (five packs of Kools and five packs of Winstons) and two quarts of oil, according to Hoda.

The clerk described the gunman as being approximately five feet, eight inches tall and 165 pounds with shoulder-length, black hair. He was wearing khaki overalls, a camouflaged shirt and had camouflage paint or grease on his face, Hoda said.

The robber fled the scene in a small brown-orange colored station wagon, headed eastbound on Firetower Road.

Sheriff Ronnie Peterson asks that anyone with information about the vehicle call contact Hoda at 467-5101.

WIPEOUT ARREST

Another arrest has been made as a result of the Hancock County Sheriff Department's Operation Wipeout.

Charles Wesley Bruns, 28, Dufour Street, Waveland, was arrested Wednesday at the Mississippi Department of Corrections facility in Gulfport where he is being held on charges previously brought against him by Waveland, according to Investigator Glen Strong.

Bay St. Louis has charged Bruns with sale of a controlled substance, crack cocaine. His bond has been set at $5,000, but he also is being held without bond on Waveland's charges, Strong said.

Crime prevention group plans to go statewide

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Mississippi Coast Crime Prevention Association hopes to become a local chapter of a statewide organization, rather than a single non-profit organization, some time in January.

The association was formed about two years ago after its outgoing president, Capt. James Luke of the Mason Chamberlain, Inc., Security Department, attended an international crime prevention conference, where he found that Mississippi was one of only a few states without a crime prevention association.

Membership in the association is open to any law enforcement practitioner, but most of the current members on the Gulf Coast are employed by police and sheriff's departments or private security firms.

Associate memberships are also accepted and include members of Neighborhood Watch Groups and other civilian crime prevention organizations, whether that person is an employee or an unpaid volunteer.

At present, the group meets on the third Wednesday of the month in rotating locations.

Its primary activity right now is serving as a resource center, particularly for smaller departments with budgets which do not provide for purchase of educational materials, films and other items related to crime prevention and public education, Luke said.

The group can also provide speakers for civic organizations and instructors for crime prevention programs.

The group's other purposes include cultivation of community awareness; coordinating the various crime prevention programs on the coast; and supporting legislation that assists crime prevention efforts by state, local and federal government.

The association also published The Bulletin, the state's first crime prevention

Jackson County Circuit Judge Robert Mills, who bond on McNeal at $200,000 said a new trial would probably have to be heard at a venue like the original.

According to McNeal's appointed attorney, Holt Montgomery, the new trial is expected to take place next year.

"We're more educational than anything else," Luke explained. "We're trying to prevent crime before it happens."

Toward that goal, the association has produced several television commercials now airing on Gulf Coast channels. They are public service messages on such crime prevention-related topics as shoplifting.

During October, which is Crime Prevention Month, Luke went to Jackson to meet with Governor Ray Mabus and the head of the state's Department of Public Safety, Louisa Dixon. Both pledged their support for a state association.

He also received a pledge of support from the International Coalition for Crime Prevention when he attended a conference in Fort Worth, Texas, in November.

The coast association has now expanded from its original three coastal counties to include Pearl River County and hopes eventually to include all of South Mississippi. A similar group has been formed in North Mississippi.

According to Greg Payne, incoming president of the coast association, said the groups hope to merge into a statewide organization by next month.

Luke added that creation of a state organization may make the association eligible for grants to further its progress, since few grants exist on the local level.

The statewide group will probably hold quarterly meetings of its board of directors, with one joint general membership meeting each year. The coast chapter plans to continue meeting on a monthly basis.

For more information on the Mississippi Gulf Coast Crime Prevention Association, contact Bulletin editor Jim Luke at 467-8744.

Association officers for 1990 were elected Monday and include Greg Payne of the Hancock-Harrison County District Attorney's Office, president; Ronnie Castille, Pascagoula Police Department, vice president; Gary Gagliardi, Keesler Air Force Base, secretary; and Marie Breland, Biloxi Police Department, treasurer.

The two students who have the school's highest number of quality points, and therefore the highest grade averages, win the valedictorian and salutatorian honors.

Carpenter handed board members a proposal for a new policy, which he asked them to consider. The matter was not addressed at Monday's meeting, but was taken under advisement for a later date.

"There needs to be a policy in place that won't put a student who has only been here two years at a disadvantage. If you can't do that, then I feel you should honor all students with high grade averages," he said.

Teacher Joan Thomas, who also addressed the board, said she does not feel it would be right to change the policy with regard to the students already enrolled.

Thomas said she has taught a number of students who had high averages and might have qualified had it not been for the four-year requirement, but believes students who entered the ninth grade this year and the current seniors, juniors and sophomores should not be affected if the policy is changed.

She said some of them are already competing for valedictorian and salutatorian and compared affecting them with a new policy to "changing the rules of a game in mid-court."

In other business Monday, the board discussed its amended budget. Among the amendments were one added on a 3-2 vote, providing $6,000 for Bay High to purchase a copier for the teachers' use.

Additional copiers will also be purchased for the district's two elementary schools, but budget amendments were not needed for those.

Board member Charles Benvenuti explained that during discussion meetings the board conducted with the faculties of each school, a need for additional copiers was a frequent comment.

The board meets again at 7 p.m. Tuesday to take bids on the construction of a proposed auditorium and arts center at Bay High. Board meetings are now held in the new administrative offices behind Bay Middle School.

The next regular meeting has been rescheduled to Jan. 15 in order to provide time for preparation of the monthly claim docket and other documents after the Christmas holidays.

Berry requests rehearing

A rehearing has been requested by a former Hancock County Jail prisoner whose $200,000 damages award in an injury-related suit was revoked by the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals several weeks ago.

Jack Berry, 26, of BaySide Park, had won $200,000 from the county last year in a federal court trial, where he had asked for $2.75 million in punitive and actual damages stemming from a 1986 jail fire.

Berry had signed a covenant not to sue and had then backed out on the agreement. The court of appeals had ruled that Berry's covenant was enforceable.

In exchange for the agreement, the county agreed to pay about $27,000 in medical bills for Berry and to drop arson charges against him in connection with the fire, which started on a mattress in the prisoner's cell.

The Fifth Circuit Court's decision was based on a finding that Berry had voluntarily signed the agreement not to sue, but in a dissenting opinion, Circuit Judge Reynaldo Garza questioned whether the matter should have been handled through a jury trial in the first place.

In order for a rehearing to be approved, three of the 14 sitting

Circuit Court judges will have to agree to hear the case. Norman Breland, who is representing Hancock County in the matter, said rehearings tend to be rare.

The "T-hangers" are constructed in rows with T-shaped enclosures to house small airplanes. Each hanger would be leased to a private plane owner.

Before advertising for bids, the commission acquired letters of interest from plane owners who wanted to lease the hangers.

The timing is wrong or something is wrong with the market now," because only bids from local firms were received, instead of bids from contractors specializing in hanger construction were received, engineer Carlos Cardon told the commission.

"When we are getting regular building guys bidding with the specialty guys, it tells me something is wrong," Cardon said.

The inflated bids may be due to the specified contract period for the hangers, which includes the unfavorable construction months, January and February.

"If the timing is wrong...turn them all down and when we get ready to build them, maybe in the spring some time, just rebid them," Commission President Ronnie Artigues said.

Jackson County Circuit Judge Robert Mills, who set bond on McNeal at $20,000, said a new trial would probably have to be heard at a change of venue like the original.

Gray Burdick, assistant Jackson County district attorney, had argued against bond for McNeal because all of his relatives live outside Jackson County and he therefore might try to leave the area.

According to McNeal's court-appointed attorney, Holt Montgomery, the new trial is not expected to take place until next year.

The Public Service Commission has granted Johnson two rate increases since 1984, reportedly for the purpose of improving his systems, and civic association leaders in both Clermont Harbor and Pass Christian Isles have asked for postponements of another rate increase hearing which would have been held early next year.

Johnson also owns systems in two Hancock County subdivisions, Jourdan River Shores and Oak Harbor.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The annual Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's annual Christmas parade has been cancelled, according to Libby Ronald, executive director.

Libby reports unstable weather conditions, illness, previous engagements, school exams, concern for the health of our children and several other happenings have caused the cancellation of the annual parade this year.

Next year's parade will be bigger and better than in the past and plans are already underway to make sure of that, Roland said.

I know there must be some boys and girls who are disappointed that may not get to tell Santa their requests this year in person.

We still have time to publish letters to Santa in the Echo before forwarding them to the North Pole.

Just drop your letters off at the Echo's office at 124 Court St., or mail them to: Santa, North Pole, c/o The Sea Coast Echo, P.O. Box 2009, Bay St. Louis, MS. 39521.

I understand the annual car wash sponsored by local political leaders to benefit the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund will be held on Saturday, Dec. 23 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Peoples Bank, Highway 90, Bay St. Louis.

The benefit car wash this year will have a Capital Touch, as U.S. Congressman Gene Taylor is scheduled to be one of the washers, just as he did as a City Councilman and State Senator.

Congressman Taylor along with local political leaders will be busy with help from several firefighters at the car wash.

It always makes me feel good to see politicians work, and I know there are others folks who feel the same way.

The Doll and Toy fund can always use help because it serves so many deserving children each year in Hancock County.

Chief Andrew Lizana and his volunteers supply a very much needed community service with the Doll and Toy fund.

I hope to see you at the car wash on Saturday, December 23.

Christmas is fast approaching and I am hoping those who still have some shopping to do will shop at home.

Shopping at home helps the community, schools, your friends and neighbors.

Merchants offer just about everything one needs for gifts and really appreciate the patronage.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi
Economic Council

M/E/C

Give us the facts

Last week brought forth reports that a labor shortage exists in parts of the country. While we hope no businesses suffer from the situation, Mississippians should be encouraged.

Although we fall short in some areas, availability of labor is not one of them.

Mississippi's economic development officials, with local and private economic development officials, should pinpoint and study areas where labor shortages exist; then market Mississippi there.

But luring industry to Mississippi will not be easy. States like Louisiana, West Virginia, Arkansas, Alabama and others are certain to fight for many of the industries and jobs we want.

Whether we win the battle for recruiting these industries will depend on many factors, not the least of which will be the state's plan for its future.

Considering that, there are many things the Legislature could do at the beginning of the next session to enhance the impression of this state's plans for the future.

Here are some starting points:

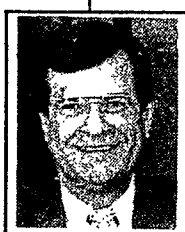

Solve the state's hazardous waste dilemma. With the exception of the Super Board, enact the Governor's education reform bill. Don't raise taxes, and, show a genuine desire to help businesses in the state succeed.

Mississippi is being afforded a rare opportunity by this country's need for additional labor; hopefully, we can take advantage of it.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator

Too much of a good idea

Insurance—we all have become very accustomed to having guarantees that no matter what happens—we are covered. Insurance has become as much a household word as baseball and apple pie.

This confidence and peace of mind our insurance provides is important to all of us, especially when it comes to our health, and the health of our families.

Last year Congress passed legislation to insure that those who could not afford large health expenses, such as seniors with a limited income, were given this same peace of mind—insurance—that no matter what happened—they were covered.

A gallant task—but who would pay—and how much?

Originally, the law was to be based on the principle that it should be self-financing so as not to contribute to the federal deficit. The premiums were to be "affordable" for Medicare beneficiaries—but "affordable" was incorrectly calculated.

The Catastrophic Health Insurance law passed last year is a glaring example of Congress expanding too far on a good idea.

Prior to passage of the act, 70 percent of senior citizens possessed private catastrophic health care coverage. But despite this fact, last year's Medicare catastrophic legislation requires the elderly to pay an additional $22.50 surcharge on each $150 of federal income tax they owe to pay for new benefits.

More than 11 million senior citizens would have to pay the new Medicare surtax this year, and 14 million would pay the tax by 1993. By then it will have risen to $42 per $150 or federal income tax owed.

Senior citizens are outraged. Members have been bombarded by citizens who don't want to pay for something they already have. This is the number one spontaneously asked question among seniors in Mississippi.

Just in this year I have received over 5,000 cards, letters and phone calls from those in our state concerned about the catastrophic insurance law. These concerns are real and understandable.

But the answers are not as simple. If we repeal the act outright, we will remove some benefits that some seniors are already depending heavily on such as hospitalization benefit, and the spousal impoverishment provisions in the Catastrophic Coverage Act. These provisions have already been implemented.

The cost of these benefits in place are supported by the flat Part B premium increase of $4 that has gone into effect. Most notably, the bill I support would delay for a year, all other provisions in the Catastrophic Act—including the surtax. If this fails I will vote to repeal the legislation altogether.

The fact is that most of us would like there to be some method of protecting the elderly from the costs associated with a catastrophic illness. There is a need; but the question is how to meet this need in an effective and financially sound manner—for all those involved, and especially for our seniors.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Patients should research prescriptions, follow directions

Dear Editor:

Many consumers are concerned about the safety and effectiveness of generic medicines because of the recent, widely-publicized problems within the generic drug industry.

Certain generic firms have participated in questionable practices during the drug approval process; however, the improprieties of a few generic firms should not be an indictment against the entire generic drug industry. The questionable activities were not industry-wide. In addition, the FDA has taken swift, remedial action to prevent future improprieties.

The appropriate use of generic medicines depends on numerous factors which are best identified by health professionals. The Mississippi Pharmacists Association urges consumers with questions about their medicines to contact their own pharmacists or physicians.

Though no serious threat to the public health has been detected to date as a result of the questionable practices of certain generic drug firms, the unfortunate events have identified opportunities for improved vigilance. All of us, including the patient, can contribute to safe and effective drug therapy.

Patients should make sure they fully understand and precisely follow directions for taking a medicine. In addition, patients must be mindful of any special precautions about possible side effects and potential interactions with food, drink or other medicines.

By becoming an active participant in his/her own health care, the patient can maximize the benefits of prescribed medicines, reduce the risk of problems and maintain good health with confidence.

Sincerely,
Phylliss M. Moret, RPh
Executive Director
Miss. Pharmacists Assn.

Stennis' NASA employees should not be held responsible

To the Editor:

Having been one of many who has written letters to the Coast area newspapers in opposition to ASRM testing at Stennis Space Center (SSC), it has occurred to me that there could well have been an aura created around the NASA folks at SSC which needs to be addressed.

In the first place, a NASA center does not initiate major space programs or major changes to an ongoing space program—that is NASA Headquarters' responsibility without question. When NASA Headquarters creates a space program, or major changes to one, such as development of the ASRM, the marching orders go out to the center or centers involved.

In the case of the ASRM, the centers involved are Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, which has the overall responsibility for design and development of the shuttle's solid rocket boosters, and to Stennis Space Center, which has static testing responsibilities.

When the centers receive their "marching orders," like all loyal employees, in whatever line of work, they march the best they know how. It would be difficult to imagine a center director refusing to carry out orders he receives from his boss in Washington, especially at SSC where the center is furnished an item to be tested.

I hope each of the Coast area newspaper editors to whom I have sent this letter will publish it and that it will serve to cast a different light on the role that the NASA people at SSC are obliged to play in what has become a highly controversial issue.

I have known a lot of people at Stennis for nearly a quarter of a century; we worked together; they are hardworking and honest, and certainly do not deserve to be thought of otherwise.

I have not changed my mind about the public health hazard which I believe testing of the ASRM at SSC will create, but complaining to the cop on the beat does not get laws changed.

Besides writing to the editors of newspapers, I have signed a petition, written to my representatives in Congress, written to pollution control officials (state and federal) and others with influence, talked with acquaintances and attended numerous meetings.

I urge anyone who is concerned about this or any other threat to our environment to do the same.

Myron L. Myers
Waveland

Support sought for opposing ASRM project

Dear Editor:

As the Christmas season approaches we have much to be thankful for: our families, homes, friends and this vast beautiful world that God gave us to live in. But we also are faced with several big issues.

Abortion and the fight to prevent NASA from testing Advanced Solid Rocket Motors at Stennis Space Center are two such issues.

While babies should have the right to be born, they also should have the right to live in a clean, healthy environment. So the efforts by Citizens for a Healthy Environment and others to stop NASA goes two steps farther—our aim is to protect our lives and environment as well as those of unborn children.

Personally, I think it is about time for the citizens of Mississippi to rise up and take a stand against any more pollution. We have too much already.

My family and I have lived in Waveland all of our lives, because we like living here. We don't want to see our beautiful Gulf Coast being destroyed a few years from now by NASA blasting into our environment huge amounts of hazardous hydrogen chloride gas and aluminum oxide, which are harmful to our health, plants and fish.

It is our duty to protect and preserve our environment, because our lives and the natural world go hand and hand—nature can survive without us, but we cannot survive without nature.

Please join our citizens for a Healthy Environment and have a merry Christmas by saying no to ASRMs.

Sincerely,
Doris Harvill

Craft items being offered by jail's Cuban detainees

BY D.C. HARVILL

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department is offering for sale handmade crafts constructed by Cuban detainees who are housed in the county's justice facility.

"We are looking for a market for their crafts to generate a little money for them. The money will go into their personal funds," said Warden Gerald Necaise.

Material for the crafts is purchased by volunteer detainee mediator Mariano Perez with money supplied by the detainees, Necaise said.

Some of the detainees have been incarcerated for seven to eight years but, unlike other people in jail, have no release date.

"They are just waiting for the system to catch up with them," Necaise said.

"The crafts occupy their time. It seems to keep them fairly well pacified for someone who is locked up. They take a lot of time and patience with it," he said.

The sheriff's office is offering items made by the detainees for sale in the jail's lobby from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

"The public is invited to come and look at the stuff for sale at the jail," said Lieutenant Richard Fayard.

Avondale on Coast to employ close to 300

The Harrison County Development Commission confirmed the purchase of the National Tank Company 122-acre fabrication complex in the Bernard Bayou Industrial District by Avondale Enterprises Inc.

The 292,000-square-foot facility will be utilized in the construction of MAC-51 Class Coastal Minehunters as awarded in a U.S. Navy contract Oct. 3.

Renovation in the facility will begin in January with employment of production personnel to commence in the third quarter of 1990.

It is anticipated that employment will reach 300 within 18 months of operation with an annual payroll in excess of $6.5 million. All but six of the personnel will be employed from the Mississippi Gulf Coast area.

As the second source supplier to the U.S. Navy, Avondale Enterprises will fabricate 188-foot glass reinforced plastic (GRP) vessels. The $1.7 billion program calls for 17 ships to be manufactured.

Art museum features children's storyteller

The Mississippi Museum of Art's own children's storyteller from New Delhi, India will tell the story of "Mike and the Christmas Tree," on Friday, Dec. 15 for two performances of a half-hour each at 1 p.m. and 2 p.m.

The storyteller, Anand Kumar Michael, will create paper props using a technique much like Japanese origami to illustrate his story as he speaks.

Michael will perform in the West Gallery of the Mississippi Museum of Art/Gulf Coast Branch which is located at 136 George E. Ohr Street in the Biloxi Cultural Center. Call 374-5547 for more information and reservations.

Miller distributor seeks contributions for charity

BY D.C. HARVILL

F.E.B. Distributors and Miller Brewing Company are raising money for the United Cerebral Palsy fund.

According to F.E.B. Sales Representative James Osbourn II, money for the cause is being collected in Coast lounges and convenience stores.

For every case or 12-pack of Miller Beer sold at participating stores, Miller Brewing Company will donate one cent and F.E.B. will match that contribution.

Donations also can be made at the Hancock County Sheriff's office.

"I decided to talk to the people at the sheriff's department thinking they might pitch in a few bucks, but they raised $100 in just a 24-hour period,"

Osborn said.

"We would really like to see all the county agencies participate," he said.

Last year the local fundraiser netted $8,000 for the charity. This year's goal is $11,000. The 50 Miller distributors nationwide raised one million dollars.

"The important thing for me is that the people of Hancock County participate in this worthwhile cause. We are going full force with this and we are excited about the money collected for UCP here," Osbourn said.

Fifty percent of the funds collected locally will remain on the Coast, he said.

"We are hoping to open a satellite station of the UCP treatment center on the Coast," Osbourn said.

Peppermint seasons holiday pie

Every holiday has its own special flavors, and peppermint belongs to Christmas. From the simple candy cane to meringue kisses and eggnog, the peppermint taste lends tang to the season.

Peppermint Chiffon Pie carries on the tradition. This festive dessert features a foamy pink filling piled into a dark chocolate crust—sprinkled with crushed peppermint candies, of course.

Beaten egg whites get credit for the light texture of a chiffon pie. Fat hinders their foaming, so be sure beaters and bowl are clean and that there is not a trace of yolk in the whites. (Use a metal or glass bowl—plastic often absorbs fat.) Beat the egg whites before you whip the cream, to avoid having to rinse off the beaters.

If you find that you can't fit all of the filling into the pie shell, just chill the remainder, along with the pie. As the gelatin sets, you'll be able to spoon the excess of the top of the pie, swirling it into attractive mounds.

PEPPERMINT CHIFFON PIE

6 to 8 servings

1/2 cup sugar, divided
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 cup milk
4 eggs, separated
1/2 teaspoon peppermint extract
3 to 4 drops red food coloring
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 cup whipping cream, whipped
1 (9-inch) chocolate crumb crust
1/3 cup crushed peppermint candies (about 12)
Additional whipping cream, whipped, optional
Additional crushed peppermint candies, optional

In small saucepan, stir together 1/4 cup sugar and gelatin. Stir in milk and let stand 1 minute. Blend in egg yolks. Cook, over medium heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved, about 4 minutes. Remove from heat.

Stir in extract and food coloring. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon about 30 to 40 minutes.

In large mixing bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar at high speed until foamy. Add remaining sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating constantly until sugar is dissolved and whites are glossy and stand in soft peaks.

Gently, but thoroughly, fold chilled gelatin mixture and 1/2 cup whipping cream, whipped, into whites. Pile into crust.

Top with 1/3 cup crushed peppermint candies. Chill until firm, several hours or overnight. Garnish with additional whipped cream and peppermint candies, if desired.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

With the holiday party tempo picking up each day, hostesses are more and more on the lookout for tasty additions to the party menu, and also for tidbits or "munchies" to have on hand for impromptu Yuletide callers, aren't they? I know I am!

I usually try to keep the freezer and fridge stocked with such holiday items, and I am always delighted to find a new one, such as these sour cream mushrooms. Carol Surgi gave me the recipe a few days ago, and I've made this dish a couple of times already, but haven't tried to freeze it, as sour cream doesn't freeze well. But it takes so little time to stir up, that it's quickly become one of my favorite ites. Here's:

CAROL'S PARTY MUSHROOMS

1 lb. fresh medium mushrooms
3 Tbsp. butter
1/3 cup minced onion or green onions, or combination
1 cup sour cream
1 Tbsp. flour
1/2 tsp. salt (optional)
1/8 tsp. black pepper
1/2 cup seasoned breadcrumbs

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Wipe the mushrooms with a damp cloth; if quite large, slice in half lengthwise; otherwise, leave whole. Melt two tablespoons of the butter in a skillet, and stir in the mushrooms and onions. Simmer, covered, for 10 minutes or until the onions are transparent.

In a small bowl, mix sour cream, flour, salt and pepper. Place the mushrooms in a shallow baking pan and pour the sour cream mixture over.

Sprinkle the breadcrumbs over all and dot with the remaining butter. Bake for 10 to 15 minutes, or until the top browns. Serve on picks. Delicious!

Note: Don't omit the flour—it keeps the sour cream firm and prevents from separating during the cooking process. Enjoy! (Copyright, 1989, D. M. Caire)

Salads are alternative to heavy holiday fare

Salads provide a bright spot on any menu. For the busy holiday season choose those that give added color and texture to the meal.

To avoid the last minute rush, plan to serve a make ahead salad, such as marinated vegetables, a congealed or a frozen salad. Use a festive mold rather than the standard square or oblong dish. Garnish the salad in keeping with the season and serve on salad greens for extra eye appeal.

A simple fruit salad or green tossed salad is always welcome. Serve fresh, canned or frozen fruits in any combination. Let the fruit flavors blend and you don't even need a dressing.

A green tossed salad is quick and easy if greens are prepared ahead and stored in the refrigerator in a tightly covered container.

Mix with other vegetables such as slices of carrots, celery, mushrooms and water chestnuts at the last minute. Serve with a favorite prepared dressing.

Normally salads are classified as the accompaniment or appetizer salad, the main dish salad or the dessert or party salad.

The accompaniment salad should be light rather than substantial. Serve it in middle-sized portions either as a first course appetizer or with the main course. You may even use it to garnish the serving platter or dinner plate.

Individual salads help make a pretty place setting. Bread sticks or tiny crackers are nice to go with the salad that you serve at the beginning of the meal, but aren't necessary for salads that accompany the meal. Suit the type of salad and the amount you serve to the heartiness of the complete meal.

When the "salad makes the meal" it's a main dish salad. Main dish salads are easy to prepare, attractive and economical when you carefully choose ingredients.

You'll want to be sure the main dish salad is substantial and satisfying. Use a large enough plate so it will not be crowded. Ready-to-use canned meats, fruits and vegetables are time and energy savers. Use hard cooked eggs, cheese chunks or slices and pieces of leftover meat (roast, ham, etc.) for protein in these salads.

Dessert or party salads are usually congealed or frozen salads with decorative garnishes. They may be individually molded or prepared in a large mold for buffet service. Here's where you can make congealed or frozen salads in advance to avoid last minute duties.

Almost any vegetable, fruit or meat will make a good salad. For the heart of the salad, combine or arrange salads just before serving for a crisp appearance.

Always chill canned fruits and drain thoroughly; arrange on a salad place in a neat, uncluttered manner, keeping it as simple as possible. Watch for color, texture and flavor variety when you combine ingredients.

Choose a dressing to complement the salad. Many types of prepared dressings are available for vegetable, fruit or meat salads. Or, you may prefer to use your own favorite recipe.

Salads are only as expensive as the ingredients you choose. Well chosen ones can help you save calories and food dollars during the holiday season.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1989-1B

TIME OUT

By Dena Bisnette

I received a letter the other day from Marvin M. Pearson in Picayune, who shared a sports memory involving a local resident:

"While attending an intra-service football game during the fall of the year 1945, between either 82nd or 101st Airborne and the WASS (sic) section in Reims, France, I saw a Mississippian kick a field goal."

"My program sheet said he was Leo Seal, from Bay St. Louis, Mo. I knew 'Mo.' was a common error."

"I was seated close behind the goal posts. I'll bet I was probably the only person from Mississippi who witnessed the event."

"I wonder if he remembers."

I'd be willing to bet that Mississippian does remember that field goal, Mr. Pearson. Sports-related memories, as you know, tend to remain vivid over many years.

Bay High's annual Invitational Basketball Tournament begins tonight, featuring the host Tigers' lady counterparts in a 6:30 p.m. game against Hancock North Central.

The boys go into action at 5 p.m., beginning with a game between St. Stanislaus and Long Beach, then after the girls play, there will be an 8 p.m. game between Hancock and Northshore, La.

Only one local runner, Herbert Smith of Pass Christian, placed in the 6K Jingle Bell Run over in Gulfport Saturday. Smith was second in the 45-49 male division with a time of 24:43 for the race.

Don't forget the Pass to Bay Run coming up Dec. 16. Even those of you who don't run will want to remember because the race is going to have some effects on traffic over the Bay Bridge.

To preregister for the race, which is sponsored by Hancock Bank, call Lindo Sullivan of Gulf Coast Running Club at 832-6071.

Registration is still being accepted for the Gulf Coast Holiday Baseball Camp Dec. 22-23 at Gulfport High School.

Camp hours are 8:30 a.m. until noon for players ages nine to 12 and 12:30 until 4:30 p.m. for participants 13 years old through high school juniors.

Forms for preregistration, which is $35, are available at Sportsman's Corner in Gulfport, MVP Sports in Orage Grove and Pro Image and Grand Slam in Biloxi.

Instructors are coaches from Gulf Coast Community College, Mississippi State University and Gulfport and Ocean Springs High Schools.

Information is available from Cooper Farris, 832-4091, or Shirley Smith, 896-6557.

This week's Cycles Plus Bicycle Club ride will be about 35 miles of rolly to hilly terrain on a course known as the Fenton Loop. Riders should meet at Bay View and Highway 90 in Pass Christian for a 9 a.m. start.

Congratulations to the Bay-Waveland Jaycees-sponsored Saints, who topped the Bay Youth Football League with an 8-1 record this year.

The team includes six, seven and eight-year-olds and is coached by Jay Cuevas, Fred Peterman and Phillip Eubanks. Their only defeat was by an older Hancock North Central team.

I know there are a few Ole Miss alumni around here who have been following the progress of Roy Lee "Chucky" Mullins, the Rebel player paralyzed after an injury in the game against Vanderbilt.

The Ole Miss Associated Student Body has been selling 1990 collector's calendars for $7 each and is donating the profits to a trust fund for Mullins. The calendars may be ordered from the Office of the Dean of Students, University, MS 39677 or by calling (601)232-7247.

Raiders beat Jackson Southside

Over the weekend, Coast Episcopal High School played District 1A basketball games and came away with one win and one loss. Senior Jamie White set a Coast Episcopal single game scoring record as he poured in 38 points and grabbed 19 rebounds to lead the Raiders to a 65-49 victory over Jackson Southside on Friday night.

The Raiders, who trailed 26-22 at the intermission, erupted for 43 second-half points, with White and freshman guard Tyrone Jones collecting 33 of those points.

White connected on 18 of 25 shots from the floor. His 19 rebounds was a career high and lifted his season rebounding average to 10.5 per game. White is also the leading scorer on the team averaging just over 18 points a game.

Jones finished the night chipping in 17 points with senior Billy Guice adding six. Senior Scott Covode and sophomore Chris Painter each canned two points for the Raiders.

On Saturday afternoon the Coast Episcopal Raiders traveled to Natchez to take on the number one ranked team in the Mississippi Private School Association and came up just short as Trinity downed the Raiders 48-40.

The game was nip and tuck with the Raiders gaining a lead 29-28 midway in the third period with a three-point basket

Tigers to host tournament

Special to the Echo

By Tommy Bergeron

The Bay High School Tiger-dome will be host to the school's first invitational basketball tournament in four years.

The renewal of the tournament, which had been a long-established tradition before the four-year interval, should prove to be enjoyable for those in attendance, according to Bay High's boys' coach Michael Ladner.

Ladner commented, "We are enthusiastic about having an invitational tournament back at Bay High. The boys' and girls' teams we have should provide some exciting basketball considering the balance of the participating teams. I feel like any one of them could take the trophies home on Saturday."

The teams are (host) Bay High, St. Stanislaus, Hancock North Central, Long Beach, Slidell-Northshore (La.), Forrest County AHS and Pearl River, La.

In the girls' bracket, only four teams will compete as the host Lady Tigers under first-year head coach Dennis Barcelona, will face Hancock North Central.

al. Long Beach will take on Forrest County AHS in the other girls' game.

Thursday at 5 p.m. the tournament will tip off with coach Chuck Genin's St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws taking on "nemesis" Long Beach.

The Bearcats have already beaten the Rocks twice, including a 92-90 overtime win in the d'Iberville tournament finals last Saturday. This game should be a barnburner.

Other games Thursday are: 6:30 p.m., Bay High vs Hancock North Central (girls); 8 p.m., Slidell-Northshore vs

Hancock North Central (boys) Friday's action will see the Bearkittens of Long Beach take on Forrest County AHS at 5 p.m.

The Rebels of Pearl River, La. will play the winner of the SSC-Long Beach game at 6:30 p.m.

Junior Rocks down Long Beach

The seventh and eighth grade St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws soundly defeated the Junior Bearcats of Long Beach on Monday, 48-32, at SSC.

Jason Jones led the Rocks' scoring, pumping in 19. Others who contributed to the score were Shawn Williams with 13 and Ray Ladner with nine. Teammate Chad Perronne was credited with four steals.

"We played together on both sides of the ball, which is what it takes to win," said Rock junior high basketball coach Andy Kivlan. "Everyone on the team got to play; this is important when you're building a program."

"I've played some teams that only used five or six players," Kivlan continued, "but in the long run this hurts not only the program but the kids involved."

The Junior Rocks led 25 to 13 at the half and outscored the visiting Bearcats 12 to 6 in the final period.

"Aggressive, full court man defense and teamwork made the difference," Kivlan noted.

Bassin' with the pros

Catching bass in cold, muddy water

Sometime this fall or winter you're going to encounter what most bass anglers consider the worst of all possible conditions: cold, muddy water.

It's a time when even the best pros in the business think about other things they'd rather do than be fishing.

"Cold, muddy water can really be tough," laughs Johnson Outboards Pro Staff angler

Randy Dearman, a Lake Livingston, Texas, fishing guide and tournament angler who has seen his share of bad conditions.

"I've seen a lot of fishermen simply give up, put their boats on the trailer and head home when they have to fish in cold, muddy water.

"The first thing I recommend fishermen do is try to find some different conditions, either clear water or warmer water. Look for natural springs where the water will be warmer, or fish around a power plant discharge area, because the water will be warmer there, too.

"Even rain may actually warm the water a little. If it is raining, look for runoff areas."

Just a few degrees of temperature change can help make bass more active, says Dearman. As you move around a lake, check the temperature regularly, since it will not be constant throughout the lake.

"The colder the water, the more channel-oriented bass become," adds the Johnson pro. "Bass may suspend, but they may be near the bottom if the water has been cold for a long time.

"One of the key areas to look for bass is where different channels, such as a tributary creek and a larger river channel intersect. Even two creek channels can be a good spot, especially if the channels are well-defined and offer a good breakline."

Among Dearman's favorite lures for fishing under these conditions are jigs, spoons, and spinnerbaits. He especially likes to slow-roll a spinnerbait over the edge of a channel drop, letting the lure fall as deep as 20 feet at times.

"For this type of fishing I use a one-ounce spinnerbait with a single size 6 blade and with a pork trailer," explains Dearman.

"I use a six and one-half foot medium action rod, and 15 to 20-pound test line. The important thing is to stay in contact with the lure as it falls.

"Strikes will usually be light, and if you feel the blade stop turning, you need to set the hook."

Evinrude and Johnson outboards offer the Pro-Team Bass Vest. A personal flotation device—PFD) designed for bass fishermen, the vest features four pockets, adjustable sides and a D-ring for attaching an emergency ignition cut-off tether.

Ole Miss calendar profits benefit Mullins

Students at The University of Mississippi are selling calendars and contributing half of the proceeds to the Roy Lee "Chucky" Mullins Trust Fund.

The calendars, which are considered collectors items by some, have color photographs of Ole Miss campus scenes and listings of Ole Miss events throughout the year.

Representatives of the Ole Miss Associated Student Body have been selling the 1990 calendars at $7 each for several weeks.

Rocks take second in d'Iberville tourney

The St. Stanislaus Basketball Rock-a-Chaws took it to the wire last week in the finals of the d'Iberville Tournament, losing to Long Beach 92-90 in overtime in the championship game.

Shannon Garrett paced the Rocks with 24, while Greg Schruuff added 19, Chris Perronne 18, Cedric Smith 14, and Roger Maxey 12.

"D'Iberville got the hot hand in the fourth quarter," noted rock head basketball coach Chuck Genin after the game.

"The fourth quarter was the big turn-around. Long Beach hit several three-pointers and gained the momentum. We missed several free throws down the stretch."

The loss gave the Rocks second place in the tourney and an 8 and 4 overall record.

In the opening game of the d'Iberville tournament the Rocks downed the host Warriors 78-52, led by the scoring of Greg Schruuff and Shannon Garrett.

The Rocks outscored the Warriors 25-7 in the second period.

"We had an all around team effort," Genin said of the win. "We executed well and fought hard. After two straight losses, this was a big win."

In the second game of the session, Stanislaus downed previously unbeaten Mercy Cross 72-68.

Garrett led the scoring with 22, followed closely by Perronne with 19 and Schruuff with 18.

The Rocks were scheduled to play the Hancock North Central Hawks at Hancock on Tuesday.

He had previously received letters in football and track at St. Stanislaus. The six-foot-two, 246-pound tackle is son of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Bradford of Bay St. Louis.

Correction

The captain of the seventh and eighth grade Gulfview cheerleaders for the 1989 season was Danielle Haust.

Carla Nixon served as co-captain, Cheerleader Sponsor Violet Siewert stated.

Special to the Echo
By Sharon Ward

The University of Southern Mississippi Soccer club has put an end to the myth that American kids can't play the game. "People assume American kids can't play soccer," said Coach Frank Glamser, a professor of sociology and anthropology who has served as the club's volunteer coach for the past six years.

Glamser said the highly successful 1989 USM Soccer Club, which in the past was made up primarily of foreign students, included only one foreign player from Wales. The other 21 team members came from Missouri, North Carolina, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and Georgia.

The USM team scored five victories in November to win the Southeastern Conference Invitational tournament in Clinton and closed out the 1989 season with a 19-1-1 record Dec. 2 by blanking Ole Miss 3-0 in the fourth annual Golden Eagle Classic in Hattiesburg.

USM's only loss was an early season 4-2 setback by Auburn, which failed to play in the Southeastern Conference tournament. The tie was a 1-0 slugfest against a team from Hattiesburg-based William Carey College, a team that won the NAIA regional championship a year earlier.

Glamser attributes the growing roster of U.S. players to a growing North American popularity for the sport in recent years. He noted that not too many years ago, very few high schools included soccer among their sports programs.

Currently believed to be the number four spectator sport on campus behind football, basketball and basketball, Glamser said USM home games usually attract crowds of 300 or better. The coach attributes the success of the USM club to "good players who work hard." He said players tend to be a close-knit group because they spend so much time together—two hours of practice five days a week, plus trips to weekend game sites for a three-month period that starts in September.

One "tremendous advantage" for the USM team is the guidance of a devoted head coach in a collegiate sport that often features student player-coaches. Glamser is assisted by graduate student Jaime Orellana, a former goalkeeper for the El Salvador national youth soccer team.

"It's remarkable that we can play schools that have enrollments of 20,000 to 30,000—a much larger pool (of students) from which to choose players—and win, but our players are better fit and more hard-working," said Glamser, noting athletic scholarships are not available for soccer participants.

While physical size is not as critical in soccer as in some other sports such as football, Glamser said physical stamina—a trait of the 1989 USM team—is of the utmost importance.

Over the last two years, the USM club has been undefeated in the Southeastern Collegiate Soccer League, a first for any Mississippi team. The league includes teams from Louisiana State University, Tulane, Hinds Community College, Mississippi College, Ole Miss, Mississippi State and the University of Alabama.

Local residents on the USM soccer team are goalkeeper Eddie Bourgeois, a junior, and forward Joel Duncan of Pearl-Lington, a freshman.

Lady Raiders take first win

The Lady Raiders of Coast Episcopal won their first game of the season with an exciting 32-28 double overtime victory over Jackson Southside.

The Lady Raiders overcame a seven-point deficit in the second half and on two free throws from Katherin Parsel forced the game into the first overtime period.

Near the end of that overtime period, Rebecca Thompson connected on two free throws to once again send the game into an extra period.

In the second overtime period, baskets by Miriam Salloom and Thompson gave Coach Rebecca Montgomery and her Lady Raiders their initial win of the year.

Thompson led the way for Coast with 14 points followed by Megan Uram with 11, Salloom with four, Parsel with two, and Taylor with one.

On Saturday, the Lady Raiders fell 36-24 to Trinity Episcopal School of Natchez. In that contest Megan Uram led the way with 16 points with Missy Mizell and Thompson each adding four.

PRC falls to Delgado

As 1989 winds down, so does the first round of action for Pearl River Community College's basketball squad.

The men closed out the season at Delgado in New Orleans Saturday with a 103-74 loss, leaving them at 5-8 in 1989.

Peter Georgian, PRC's basketball coach, said that though his team played close in the first half, the Wildcats were unable to stick with the powerful Delgado squad in the second. "We were flat for some reason," he said. "I don't know if the kids were thinking about Christmas or what."

The loss came on the heels of a 60-59 defeat to Southwest at home Thursday.

But there was some reason for good cheer, as the Cats won their own Coke Classic Tournament, held Nov. 30 to Dec. 2. The loss to Southwest was the result of a recurring problem—turnovers—according to Georgian.

After the loss to Southwest, Georgian said, "We could be 8-3 right now if it were not for the turnovers."

He said he feels good about the new year.

Through the fall he has been playing eight to nine players a game. "I really think that is going to help us in the long run."

'ReLeaf Mississippi' seeks to combat greenhouse effect

The "ReLeaf Mississippi" campaign plans to get two million trees planted in the state's urban areas by 1992. The massive tree planting effort is designed to offset the effect of deforestation in the tropical forests of South America. Trees help clear the air of carbon dioxide, a major "greenhouse effect" contributor.

The campaign is Mississippi's answer to the American Forestry Association's "Global ReLeaf" tree planting effort which aims to plant 100 million trees in America's cities and towns over the next three years.

"ReLeaf Mississippi" is being administered by the Mississippi Forestry Commission, with the support of dozens of other civic organizations, conservation agencies and organizations.

Citizens interested in participating in "ReLeaf Mississippi" may obtain more information by writing the State Forester (Attn: "ReLeaf Mississippi") 301 N. Lamar St., S-300 Jackson, MS 39201.

MSU course has suggestion for golfer with everything

What do you give the golfer who has everything? How about his or her name in granite, where thousands will see it every time they play Mississippi State University's new championship golf course?

Not only will the gift-in-granite perpetuate the receiver's devotion to the game, it also will help the course raise "seed" money for a new clubhouse.

Workmen have anchored on each tee a 1,000-pound granite pillar that depicts the hole with a laser-engraved color map. A legend lists the distances from the hole's championship, men's, and women's tees to the center of its green.

Each of the 18 off-white granite pillars is six inches thick, 12 inches wide, and six feet high. Each includes space for the names of "sponsors" who donate $500 apiece to the clubhouse fund, according to Matt Pinter, director of golf course operations.

"When all sponsors—and that includes business and professional firms as well as individuals—fill the holes' guideposts with their names, the clubhouse fund will net enough to get us started toward our goal for a multi-purpose clubhouse that people will be proud of as they are the course," Pinter said.

The course—designed by internationally acclaimed golf architect Brian Ault and built by Mississippi State employees—was completed in October of 1988, three years after the Professional Golfers' Association of America chose Mississippi State to train students in professional golf management.

Mississippi State is one of only three schools in the United States that the PGA has sanctioned to train its future club pros.

The five-year program leads to a degree in marketing and to Class-A membership in the PGA. About 160 students from all parts of the country are enrolled this year.

For additional information on the gift-in-granite program, telephone Pinter or Christi Sanders at 325-3028.

from sophomore Chris Painter. Trinity, who had started three players taller than 6'4, used their height advantage down the stretch to put away the scrappy Raiders.

"If nothing else, we gained some respect and a whole bunch of confidence," said Coach Jack Hutchison. "Trinity had beaten Coast by 60 points last season, and I think they were surprised by our improvement. If we had done a little better job on the boards we could have won the game," said Hutchison.

Jamie White and Chris Painter led the way for the Raiders with 13 points each. Tyrone Jones added eight with Billy Guice tossing in five.

Free budget planner offered by MCFA

With holiday expenses, property taxes and other once-a-year bills like insurance, the year-end for many resembles a spending marathon. It's a race that pushes many families beyond their financial capacity, leaving budgets severely strained.

However, just as a physical checkup before exercise can prevent injury, an objective look at your fiscal fitness is necessary to avoid future money woes.

To help consumers gain more control of finances, the Mississippi Consumer Finance Association is offering a free "Consumer Budget Planner."

The easy-to-read, fold-out brochure teaches the basics of budgeting and includes charts to help determine net worth. It also has a budgeting worksheet which allows for easy computation of expenses.

"Consumers should determine their fiscal fitness before making gift lists and applying for credit cards and loans. We hope our budget planner will help them do this," said John Gough, an MCFA director.

Produced by the American Financial Services Association, the "Consumer Budget Planner" includes tips on budget formulation, management of dual incomes and ways to cut expenses.

The MCFA represents 392 consumer finance offices across Mississippi. "As lenders, our members want customers to use the money we provide to better their lives, not get trapped in a web of debt which makes it hard for them to get by," Gough said.

With loans outstanding of over $650 million, the consumer finance industry serves thousands of Mississippi families each year.

For a free copy of the "Consumer Budget Planner," write to the Mississippi Consumer Finance Association, 15 Northtown Drive, Suite C, Jackson, MS 39211.

TIPS ON USING CREDIT WISELY

* Your maximum debt (everything you owe including home mortgage payments) should not be more than 35 percent of your gross income.

* Remember that credit costs money. Renting money is like renting a house or car—you have to pay for its use.

* Don't buy something just because you can get it on credit. Buy on credit only what you need, and remember, you will have to pay the full price of the item sooner or later.

Ask yourself, will I be able to afford the payments based on my current financial situation.

* Make sure your credit source is reliable and has a good reputation.

* Ask your lender questions. Make sure you understand how much the loan really costs and how you will be expected to repay it.

* If you find you cannot meet your payment schedule, do not avoid your creditors. They want to help you with a plan to meet your obligations.

* If you are unsure about how much credit you can safely carry, contact the manager of your local consumer finance office.

CONSUMER UPDATE

Credit can cause debt problems

By Janet K. Lukens
Area Consumer
Management Specialist

The ease with which consumers can use credit cards often create debt problems. The profile of families who have consumer debt problems is not surprising.

According to the 1986 Survey of Consumer Finances, those families with debt to income ratios of 30 percent or more which are to be considered in the danger zone had average incomes of only $10,000.

Further income had, on average, fallen over 20 percent from three years earlier, and 95 percent of the families had made a major consumer durable purchase in the past three years.

Credit card rates are high compared to many other consumer interest rates, and they change very little even when other loans do.

Credit card rates are high for the simple reason that credit card costs and risks are higher than for other loans. Credit Card loans require no collateral.

The average cardholder uses a credit card many times a year, therefore making many transactions for the card issuer to handle and monitor.

As a result, the cost to a bank handling a credit card is 10 to 12 times higher than the handling costs of a single personal loan or auto loan. The existence of a grace period on many credit cards also increases their costs.

The main reason that credit card rates don't change much when other interest rates change, especially downward, is that the cost of money is a much less important component of the total cost of credit cards than for other loans.

Operating and service costs for credit cards account for 40 to 60 percent of their costs, compared to only 15 percent for other loans.

People are our greatest natural resource in world

"The People, Mississippi's Best Natural Resource" is tastefully printed on a blue card to be seen at the deposit window at the Hancock Bank in Bay St. Louis.

The statement is a truth we should contemplate, accept and ask ourselves how we can protect our "natural resource." There are so many ways until it is mind-boggling!

Of course we want our resources to be safe, and careful investments are a must. We should make plans to develop the potential in our young people. That means education! And that commodity is getting more expensive every year.

We should protect our "natural resources" with an adequate health program, and that goal, too, is difficult.

Then there is the matter of balance: There should be time for work and play and self-improvement. This calls for planning.

A budget? Perhaps a bit of counsel—deliberation. Fortunately our banking institutions have trained persons available to assist. A good counselor should be able to direct you in making such decisions as whether or not to make a loan for the cost of higher education, or building a home, or buying a car, or simply taking a break from routine and get some rest and recreation.

When decisions are difficult to make it is wise to "talk it over." Let's resolve to protect our natural resources with assurance.

Times and situations have a way of changing and we should not neglect the importance of cultivating an optimistic outlook.

Take for example college requirements. In 1837, Mt. Holyoke College adopted the following rules:

"No young lady shall become a member of Mt. Holyoke Seminary who cannot kindle a fire, wash potatoes, repeat the multiplication table and at least two-thirds of the shorter catechism."

"Every member of the school shall walk a mile a day unless freshet, earthquake, or some other calamity prevent."

"No young lady is expected to have gentlemen acquaintances unless they are returned missionaries or agents of benevolent societies."

Members honored

Pass Christian Garden Club

The Pass Christian Garden Club held its annual Christmas Tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stanbro on Dec. 7. Hostesses were Mrs. Warren Schulz and Mrs. Peter O. Schmid along with their committee members.

The club honored all their living active charter members, Misses Adele Bielenberg, Claire Knost, Jane Northrop and Julia Frye; also Mrs. William Curren, Mrs. Donald DeMetz, Mrs. Richard L. Happ and Parnell McKay.

These members were presented with ceramic floral pins which were made by Mrs. John G. Drevar, historian of the club.

The tea table was decorated with an arrangement of red and white carnations interspersed with holly which was donated by Mrs. Lee Stanbro. The tea was served by the co-hostesses as well as other members of the club.

The next meeting will be Jan. 4 at the Hancock Bank Civic Center at 11 a.m. Guest speaker will be JoAnna Hudson, third vice president of the Green Thumb Garden Club who studied at Mississippi State University. Title of her presentation will be "Creative Art of Floral Design in the Home and Topiary Arrangements."

On Jan. 11 there will be two flower show workshops at the Hancock Bank Civic Center from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m. Speaker for these workshops will be Mrs. John Drevar. All members are urged to attend these very informative classes in preparation for the annual flower show April 26.

Bay-Waveland Garden Club

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club will celebrate this joyous season with a tasting party and a miniature flower show entitled "Have a Merry Little Christmas," in place of Thursday's December meeting.

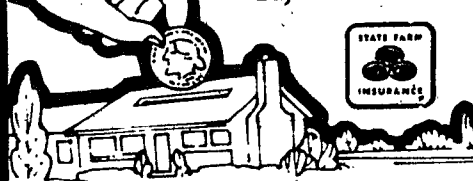

The public is invited to the flower show on Dec. 14 between 2 and 4 p.m. at the Garden Center, 114 Leonhard Ave.

A miniature flower show is a standard show except everything is scaled down to not larger than five to eight inches. It is truly a challenge on exhibitors' ingenuity and imagination.

Now Phone Service Comes In Your Favorite Calling Patterns.

Tailored To Save

Economy Service You don't make many local calls? Economy Service can help you trim your phone bill down to size — while expanding your local calling area.

Under the new Area Calling Plan, Economy Service turns nearby long distance numbers into local calls at lower local rates. You can call these areas without dialing "1" before the number. Just dial the seven-digit phone number the same as you would when making any other local call.

Designed For Versatility

Standard Service Well suited to the phone styles of those who make more calls, Standard Service stretches the savings with a discount calling package. It also expands your local calling area, turning nearby long distance numbers into local calls at lower local rates. Instead of dialing "1" before the number, you dial just seven digits as you would when making any other local call.

The Area Calling Plan. A New Style Of Saving!

South Central Bell's Area Calling Plan gives you two new ways to save on phone service. It expands your local calling area so you save on calls to many numbers that were previously long distance. And it gives you more control over your local phone bill. If you use your phone less, you pay less.

With the Area Calling Plan, one phone style doesn't have to fit all. Now you have a choice. And the new plan has been designed in two different versions, so you can tailor your phone service to your individual calling patterns.

All telephone customers in this area will receive information in the mail that explains the benefits of the Area Calling Plan. We think you'll find it helpful in matching your calling style to the phone service that fits you best.

If you prefer a set monthly rate and don't make many long distance calls to nearby cities, Flat Rate Service will continue to be available. Your local calling area will remain the same as before.

For more information, call at no charge 1 557-6500 (residential customers) or 1 557-6000 (business customers).
